PRAMBLE

The FCCN - Fundação para a Computação Científica Nacional (Foundation for National Scientific Computation), is a private not for profit institution charged with the responsibility of the management, registry and maintenance of the Domains under .PT under the scope of the delegation made by the IANA - Internet Assigned Numbers Authority (RFC 1032/3/4 and 1591), an organization replaced by the ICANN- Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers.

The FCCN organises the space for .pt names through the use of classifiers designed to distribute the .pt address space in such a way as to facilitate the accommodation of different kinds of institutions and sectors of activity. Therefore, the registry of domains may be made directly under '.pt', or under one of the domain classifiers (.pt sub-domains), '.net.pt', '.gov.pt', '.org.pt', '.edu.pt', '.int.pt', '.publ.pt', '.com.pt' or '.nome.pt'.

Only domains registered directly under the .pt or under one of the sub-domain classifiers given in this document are regarded as official .pt domains.

The positive experience with the totally online registry in the classifier .com.pt and the objective to make more simple and faster the registry in the remainder classifiers and directly under .PT justifies the option to make available from the 1st of March onward the online registry for all domains.

Following the best international practices, the prohibitions are limited in the registry of Domains under .PT, namely in what relates to geographical terms.

At international level, the FCCN continues to have an active part, as both member and protagonist, in meetings and workgroups of accredited organisations in the scope of the Internet such as the ICANN and the CENTR - Council of European National Top level domain Registries. Within the scope of the recommendations made by these entities, the FCCN develops its work so as to guarantee, namely:

- The technical and administrative management of .pt Internet address space;
- The proper configuration and operation of the primary server in the DNS pt zone;

- The management of a database of registered domains, accessible by the Internet;
- The provision of statistical data on .pt registered domains;
- The functioning of an independent body with a consultative function - Conselho Consultivo de DNS pt (pt DNS Advisory Council) - with the collaboration of institutions of recognised merit in the scope of the Internet in assessing the service provided to the community, and in drawing up and interpreting regulations for the Domain Registration Service.

Since more and more questions are raised regarding to domain names and intellectual property rights, and as a consequence of international recommendations, the FCCN:

- Maintains a policy looking for the prevention of speculation and misuse connected to .pt domain names, in accordance with the best practices, including recommendations from the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO);
- Maintains a policy of out-of-court settlement - an arbitration procedure-, which, according to the best practices, will grant procedural guarantees to the parties involved and it will be applied without the prejudice of any other possible legal action.
- Allows since the 1st of January of 2005 the Register of domain/subdomain names with special characters of the Portuguese alphabet, as per the international recommendations that point for the multilingual use of the Internet.

The FCCN will continue to promote partnerships with entities so as to optimize the management of domain registry, through the figure of agent of registry (registrar), with facilitated rules of access.

The FCCN encourages also Internet users to send any suggestions they may have connected to this document.
